From the President

As the holiday season approaches, we look forward to welcoming back our seasonal residents. With their return of course comes a significant increase in guests and visitors. Long lines at the entry gates can be an inconvenience for everyone, but we can all alleviate this by calling in our guest(s) prior to their arrival using the automated system at 954-978-2666. Remind your guest(s) to have their valid ID ready when approaching the gate and to know you're building and apartment number. This simple step helps keep traffic moving smoothly and makes the process easier for everyone and will be greatly appreciated.

Also, with this season we find ourselves needing a helping hand or simply knowing that someone cares besides relying on our friends, family and neighbors. That's where 2-1-1 Broward comes in—a resource many of us may not even know exists, but one that can make a real difference.

2-1-1 Broward Touchline is a free service that offers a daily telephone call to residents who may benefit from a friendly check-in. Its mission is simple but powerful: to ensure the health, safety, and well-being of those living alone in our community. These daily calls can provide reassurance, offer helpful information, and sometimes even prevent situations from becoming emergencies, helping people remain safely in their homes and connected to the community.

Whether you or someone you know could benefit from this service, it's comforting to know that help is just a phone call away. See the resources available to you and share this information with your friends and neighbors so that no one has to face life's challenges alone.

These agencies provide comprehensive support for seniors, including meals and nutrition programs, home- and community-based care, housing assistance, Alzheimer’s and dementia support, caregiver services, and veterans’ benefits guidance. Residents and caregivers are encouraged to reach out to these resources to ensure older adults can live with dignity, security, and connection.

In the best interest of our residents and to help ensure a safe and welcoming community, the Wynmoor Community Council (WCC) has adopted a rule prohibiting open carry of firearms, whether loaded or unloaded, on Council-owned property. This includes all WCC-sponsored or sanctioned Clubs, meetings, events, and functions, as well as all buildings, facilities, vehicles, grounds, roadways, walkways, parking lots, and other exterior areas under Council control. The rule applies to residents, guests, visitors, and business vendors, contractors, or delivery personnel. Signage reflecting this rule will be posted at all public entrances. Please note this applies only to Council-owned properties; each individual Association Board within Wynmoor will need to vote separately on whether to adopt a similar rule for its own buildings and grounds.

We are deeply grateful to our veterans, whose courage and dedication have secured the freedoms and privileges we cherish in the United States. Many of us have family members, friends, or teachers who have selflessly served, allowing us to live in peace and security. Let’s take time to thank these remarkable men and women—not just on special days, but throughout the year. Their sacrifices deserve our ongoing recognition and appreciation.

Finally, Happy Thanksgiving to all our family, friends, and neighbors. As we gather today, let’s pause to reflect on the many blessings in our lives. Too often, daily routines keep us from appreciating what truly matters—our loved ones, our community, and the priceless gift of good health. May your Thanksgiving be filled with warmth, gratitude, and joy!

Don’t forget to turn back your clocks on November 2nd!
GOD BLESS and be safe!

Netter?

By Patrick Lewis-Moors

I was very surprised when I saw that I had received a text from an unknown phone number. The text read, “Patrick, we need your help! Bev.” It was in studying the thing that I recognized the area code and first three numbers as the town where I had grown up, Oxford, New York. At this point I began to remember a neighborhood family that lived just up the street with a daughter by the name of Beverly and that further she had purchased the family home. Perhaps Beverly was still living there on Merchant Street. As is my habit, and it was still early, I went out and acquired my morning cup of coffee and drove down to Pompano Beach to enjoy the morning. Finally, around eight o’clock, I called the number and Beverly answered. “What’s this all about,” I inquired. “This is Patrick.”

There was silence. After a pause Beverly spoke in little more than a whisper, “There’s something strange going on around here. We hear barking where there is no dog and sometimes see orange eyes glowing in the night.”

“And so how long has this been happening?” I asked. Beverly replied that she wasn’t all that sure but felt that I needed to come up to show the situation good attention.

I took a good long pull on my coffee as I considered my reply to this request. I had not been in New York State since we retired over ten years ago, and I should travel all that way for an imaginary ghost dog? Oh well, it might be an adventure, so I agreed to give the situation a bit of a look.

On my arriving in town, I readily saw that nothing much had changed. The old brick school, firehouse, and library all stood in their places around the park at the head of Merchant Street. Beverly’s house was there a ways down Merchant on the left. Beverly was waiting for me sitting on her front porch, and I eased to a stop in her driveway.

“How about a fresh cup of coffee, Patrick, you look to be tired from your trip.” Beverly queried. I quickly agreed and thanked her. As she was retrieving the coffee I began looking around the neighborhood. The house that I had grown up in was just two doors down, and each of the homes emanated a thousand memories of days long ago. And, of course, next to my old house was the railroad and so many memories of the trains.

Beverly came out of the door with my coffee bringing my mind back into focus on the business I’d come for, and we started to talk. It seems that the sounds of a dog barking could come either day or night, but the EYES, the orange eyes, they have been seen only at night. Naturally, I inquired of Beverly where do these events take place, and she replied all around the house and this end of the street.

For whatever reasons, Beverly had more to say than she was willing to say at this point; I could just feel it in my bones. So, I asked her if I could assume that we might hear a bark even now. Again, as she did on the phone when we first talked, she went silent before taking a slow breath and then said yes.

“Beverly,” I said, finishing up my coffee, “I’m going to take a bit of a walk around the neighborhood just to see what I can see.” She nodded as I walked off the porch. I looked up to the big house on the corner remembering the original Baptist parsonage. It was then that I thought that I heard a faint yip. I scanned everywhere. I could see nothing, but heard the noise again. For some reason I wanted to believe that I heard the noise inside my head, not my ears. Reaching the top of the street, I walked past the front of the house and past the church where I heard/felt the yip again. Again, I scanned, and at first saw nothing. Then, in the darkened space on the far side of that church and the next house, I saw the orange eyes glowing! My skin was tingling and the neck hairs rising, but I stood my ground, staring back at those eyes. As I watched, the eyes grew fainter and fainter until they were gone altogether.

I finished my walk around the block to find Beverly still sitting on her porch and with a fresh cup of coffee for me. She asked what I saw on my walk, and I said, “Just memories.”

As we drank our coffee, I said nothing about my experiences on the walk. I did say that I planned to come back after dark for more looking around to see what I might find. At this point, I could not make up my mind as to the reality of what I had just seen. Never have I believed in ghosts, let alone a ghost of a dog, but I had both seen and heard something, something.

I walked across the bridge to what we always called “over town” to have a bite to eat, look around, and wait for dark.

A big gibbous moon rose early, yielding plenty of light, as I made my way back across the bridge and across the park to Merchant Street. I walked down the street. Everything was normal peaceful. I passed Beverly’s house and the one next door, finally arriving at my old house. I stood there in front noticing the warm lights shining out from within. There must be a family living there with kids, I thought. My eyes shifted to the side yard and that is when I saw those orange eyes! As I stared, I could hear that yip. It was a soft, friendly yip, and the eyes began to brighten. Standing there I began to realize things were very different. The world around me seemed very quiet and far away, while the eyes seemed closer. Little by little, a swirling mist formed into the shape of a dog. The dog was basically a Dalmatian. He stood here looking at me. As we eyed each other I could hear words in my mind. The dog was talking to me, calling me by name. For some reason I did not feel anxious. I just listened to the words in my mind. The voice said he was Netter, Beverly’s dog from long ago, but that he had another name, Murphy. When he died the confusion over names caused him problems being accepted in the next realm. The “GREAT DANE” at the gate could not find Netter’s proper name in the GREAT BOOK and so sent poor Netter back to the earthly plain. He has been quietly haunting Merchant Street ever since.

I do know the story behind the story. The family got the Dalmatian and named him Netter, after which my brother decided to rename the poor thing

Murphy. No one in town knew for sure which name was which. Being only weeks old when he came to Merchant Street, the dog could not remember which name was his real name either. I suggested that he cross over one more time and consult the Great Dane, telling him to read his book more carefully, “as your name is Netter, and that is that.”

My vision of Netter began to fade, and the voices of the evening returned. The house looked warm again and the side yard was empty. I took a slow walk around the block, scanning everywhere, but seeing nothing out of place. When I arrived back at Beverly’s, she was on the porch with more coffee, and I sat down.

I announced that wind and weather can play their share of tricks, on one’s imagination but I believe things will now be quiet. I thanked Beverly and told her that I’d overnight in Binghamton before flying home in the morning.

Picking Blueberries

By Nancy Heller Moskowitz

It’s the summer of 1958 and we’re off on a family trip for a two week stay at the Bonnie View Hotel in Pine Hill, New York. My parents’ friend, Fritzie, and her brothers purchased it and opened it a few years earlier. I was eleven then, just on the cusp of teenage life. This was following my second year at sleep away camp. It was idyllic! I thought that we must be rich because none of my friends, at home, were able to do something like this. The women would stay all week, and my father and the other men of their group would come up Thursday evening and stay until Monday morning when they’d return to the city and their workaday life.

The Bonnie View was smaller than all the larger and more popular Catskill Mountain hotels of that day. It had a charm all its own. Like Dirty Dancing fame, the wait staff and other employees lived in another building high above the hotel. As tweeners we would visit some of them since they were sons or daughters of other guests spending time that summer.

I felt so grown up as this would be the summer that I wouldn't be attending their children's camp. I could explore the area either alone or with friends. We swam when we wanted to, along with playing our own games on the fields or in the social hall. Somehow, the days were tiring and we had lots of fun.

One day we learned that there was a large blueberry patch nearby. With buckets in hand, three of us climbed the hill. To our surprise, there were many more bushes than we expected lush with plump, ripe berries. Prior to that, we learned "On Blueberry Hill" recorded by Fats Domino, and sang in full voice as we gathered our treat. In that day, they didn't used insecticides, so we could plop some into our mouths as we worked in the warm sunshine. They were so sweet and juicy that one of the girls had blue juice dripping down her lips. We laughed and finally returned to the hotel.

"What were we going to do with all of these berries," asked our moms. We ran to the kitchen and spoke with Sal, the baker. He eagerly took them and told us that he would create some mouthwatering desserts over the next few days. He'd let the guests know that we supplied the blueberries for the muffins, cakes, and pies. We felt so proud and happy.

The next day, Sal, made the first of many treats. Along with other breads and rolls sat the biggest blueberry muffins that we'd ever seen. We looked around and saw the many smiles from friends and other guests. What happened next was amazing! The entire adult dining room stood up and gave us a standing ovation.

I had my first crush that summer. When we had movies in the social hall, he and I would sit together. It was a summer fling especially since I was only eleven. Another special happening was listening to a sixteen-year-old boy playing his guitar at the pool. He was dating one of the guests. His name was Neil Diamond!

We stopped going to the hotel a few years later. However, this and many other reminders of our visits remain. I hope you enjoyed my trip down memory lane.

This memory was inspired by Patrick Lewis Moors story of a few weeks ago. Thanks, Patrick.

What's HAPPENING

WLGA members belong to WGA (Wynmoor Golf Association) as well as WLGA and often participate in WGA's Guys and Dolls events. Here's the entire group preparing for October's Guy and Dolls fun.

WLGA members enjoy getting together rain or shine. We played weekly tournaments all summer, carefully staying hydrated. Most of the time the rains came in the afternoon. However, recently the warning siren sounded after just a few holes. The heavens opened as golfers cleared the course and most players retreated to the Café on the Green to enjoy a delicious brunch.

Enjoying the Holidays Without the Stress
By Manohara Ferretti, M.Div.

Although the holidays can be fun, they can also be stressful as we try to juggle financial pressures, time constraints, family issues, recent tragedy, health issues, and too many commitments. We may also have expectations that may be unrealistic. All these can contribute to "holiday stress." It's important to add stress relieving practices to your holiday time before you become irritable, lose sleep, under/overeat, or feel overwhelmed.

Here are some coping strategies to keep in mind as the holidays approach:

Reassess. You do not have to have the "picture perfect" holiday seen on television shows and ads. Reset your expectations according to how you and your lifestyle are now, and not according to how it was when you were younger, had more energy or time to accomplish everything. You can always create new traditions that are easier on your schedule and the pocketbook.

Ask for help. Again, you do not have to do it all...delegate tasks to family members and friends, especially if you are hosting. Have them bring a dish, help with clean up, shopping, errands, gift wrapping, etc. Often when your family and friends participate, it creates a deeper sense of community.

Be Realistic about relatives. Trying to solve past issues with family members over the holiday usually doesn't work out well. Avoid conflicts by changing the subject, walking away or sitting with someone else. Don't sweat the small stuff...you're there to enjoy.

Avoid financial pressures. Take some time to figure out what your spending limits are and plan accordingly. Purchasing gifts throughout the year, focusing on meaningful, less expensive gifts, giving away some of those lovely things you have to family members or dividing the gift list among the family are some of the ways to eliminate post-holiday bills. Beef up traditions that don't cost any extra money, such as going caroling, baking cookies, helping the needy, touring the neighborhood to see the decorations, and attending free community or church holiday concerts.

Stay healthy. Take a break from holiday music and television specials if you find they are turning you into "Scrooge". Schedule short rests to re-energize and regroup. Don't drop out healthy routines like exercise and adequate sleep. Appoint a family member to monitor you if you are prone to overindulge holiday treats, overeat, or even forget to eat as you try to accomplish all the things on your to do list.

Simplify shopping. Avoid the crowds by shopping early, ordering gifts on-line, or by giving gift certificates. Many family members are grateful to choose their own gifts. If a friend or family member is going to the mall, ask them to pick up a gift for you. Don't forget to give yourself something special!

Remember loved ones who have died, but don't linger on the regrets, indulge the sadness or isolate. Be with friends and other family members and enjoy yourself as much as possible. Each moment of life is a new opportunity to connect and reach out. The way to honor those who have died is by celebrating each day as best we can.

Breathe Deeply and Smile! Throughout the day, take a moment or two to breathe deeply and smile. Both will uplift, reenergize, and return you to balance and calmness.

Are You Living With, Or Worried About Someone Suffering With Chronic Back Pain?

By Leading Back Pain Expert, Todd James

Do you, or someone you love, suffer with back pain? Does the pain get worse when you stand or walk? Do you experience pain, numbness or tingling into your butt or down your leg? Do you have pain when you sit for long periods or drive? Are you afraid your pain will get worse if you don't do anything about it? Has the pain gotten so bad, that you avoid many activities that you used to enjoy?

If you are 55+ and answered YES to any of these questions, then please read on because I have some special information about relief of your back pain.

It's a shame so many people think their options for dealing with back pain are rest, pain killers, or maybe worse, injections or even surgery. Often these solutions are only temporary, because they don't address the true cause of your back pain, but just mask the symptoms. Others believe there is nothing that can be done, and they will just have to suffer through the pain.

If you or someone you love is experiencing back pain and are wondering if you are doing the right things for your back, I would like to offer a free guide I have created to answer those questions. In this guide, Erasing Back Pain: How to Avoid the 9 Most Painful Mistakes and What You Should Be Doing Instead, you will find information about what will not help ease your back pain and how to make the right choices to get you out of back pain and on the road to enjoying an active, healthy lifestyle again.

I'm Todd James, Physical Therapist and I have been helping 1000s of people 55+ over the last 2 decades find quick, natural, long lasting relief from back pain. I've put together this guide because in easing your back pain it's not just about doing the right things, but also about avoiding the wrong things. When you choose the right path, your recovery from back pain will be much more effective.

If you are currently held back from getting a good night's sleep, being able to walk with friends, getting out on the golf course, or playing with the grand-kids, I invite you to visit www.coonutcreektherapy.com/backpain to claim your free guide. If you prefer, give us a call at 954-972-1200 and we'll be happy to assist you.

Don't let back pain take the joy out of your life. Get started on your path to a pain free active life!

Scrutinizing 14th Century Italian Paintings in the Philadelphia Museum of Art with Pleasure

By Barry Isaac

Recently, I returned to Philadelphia, the city of Brotherly Love to enjoy the Philadelphia Museum of Art, after a pleasant walk along Franklin Parkway. Since I have a strong propensity for 14th Century Italian Paintings and Art, this review is devoted to the Philadelphia Museum of Art’s fine collection of 14th Century Italian Paintings produced primarily by Sienese and Florentine Masters. The works that I studied were devotional in subject matter. The paintings that I am disseminating information about were produced primarily by painters who employed tempera and gold leaf on wood panel.

I started my day studying Master of Montebalate’s “Crucifixion” produced in the 13th Century in the city state of Umbria. It was an auspicious start to my venture into Medieval Italian Paintings. I then studied delightful 14th Century, Italian Trecento Paintings produced by Sienese Masters. I saw fine paintings by these Sienese Masters; Ugolino di Nerio “Prophet Daniel,” pinnacle of altarpiece, Niccolo di Tommaso “Triptych, Saint Bridget’s Vision of Nativity,” Niccolo Da Segna “Crucifixion With Virgin, Saint John The Evangelist, and Mary Magdalene,” Pietro Lorenzetti “Virgin and Christ Child,” Bartolomeo Bulgarini “Annunciate Virgin, Annunciate Angel, Saints: Andrew, Dominic, Lucy, Agatha, Lawrence, Bartholomew,” my favorite Sienese Painting that day, Taddeo di Bartolo (predella of altarpiece, “Saint Anthony Abbott, Saint Andrew, Mourning Virgin, Man of Sorrows, Mourning Saint John Evangelist, Archangel Raphael, Saint Lawrence” Andrea di Bartolo “Virgin and Child with Saint John Evangelist, and James Major,” and Francesco Vannuccio “Crucifixion With Virgin and Saint John Evangelist” Up until 1360, Siena was the dominant city state for 14th Century Italian Art. Later on Florence became the dominant city.

Afterwards, I studied fine 14th Century Italian Medieval Paintings produced by Florentine Masters I relished delightful paintings by these Florentine Masters; Dalmasio “Virgin and Christ Child With Dog,” Jacopo di Cione “Saint Peter Released From Prison,” Agnolo Gaddi “Saint Silvester and The Dragon,” Niccolo Di Pietro Gerini “Christ in Tomb With Virgin,” Bernardo Daddi “Virgin and Child With Saint John The Baptist and Saint Giles,” he employed Tempera, silver, tooled gold on wood panel with vertical grain, and Allegretto Nuzi “Virgin and Christ Child With Saints Mary Magdalene, James Major, Stephan, and Bishop Saint,” my favorite 14th Century Florentine Painting that I enjoyed. Allegretti Nuzi also utilized tempera, silver and tooled gold on wood panel with vertical grain, like Daddi. Bernardo Daddi is considered by leading experts of Florentine Medieval Painting to be the leading Florentine Painter of the first half of the 14th Century, along with Giotto.

I also saw fine Medieval Italian Paintings produced in other Italian City States worthy of Note by Vitale Da Bologna Bologna, “Crucifixion” and Master of Pesaro Crucifix Venice “Saint Cecilia and Her Husband, Valerian Being Crowned By Angel.” In short, my study of Italian Medieval Art at the Philadelphia Museum of Art was very rewarding. I then segued to study paintings and sculpture from the Early Italian Renaissance Period at this huge art museum.

Service Equals Reward

By Sheriff Gregory Tony

A Full-Service Approach To Public Safety

Few communities in the nation rely on one agency for as many vital public safety functions as Broward County. Among more than 3,000 sheriff's offices nationwide, the Broward Sheriff's Office (BSO) stands out as one of the few full-service public safety organizations in the nation, integrating law enforcement, fire rescue, detention, 911 communications and a host of regional services under one umbrella. Serving nearly two million residents across 1,200 square miles, BSO operates one of the most comprehensive public safety systems in the country.

BSO provides law enforcement to 12 cities and all unincorporated areas of Broward County, protecting neighborhoods, businesses and key infrastructure like Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport, Port Everglades and the Broward County Courthouses. Our specialized units, including Aviation, Marine Patrol, K-9, Motors and SWAT, are among the most active in the nation. BSO's intelligence-led Threat Intervention Tactics Analytics Network (TITAN) works to prevent acts of violence and terrorism, while our Fire Rescue and Emergency Services division handles emergencies from hazardous materials, technical rescue and critical, lifesaving air rescue. In 2020, we launched a unique whole blood program, which provides vital lifesaving resources to patients in a pre-hospital setting. To date, we have seen a 79.4% survival rate.

We also manage all of Broward's jail facilities, including inmate programs, court services and the 911 Regional Communications Center, which answers nearly 2.4 million for service calls per year. Our unique Real Time Crime Center supports law enforcement countywide with real-time intelligence, while our nationally accredited Crime Lab processes over 10,000 forensic cases annually.

Behind the scenes, our Neighborhood Support Team ensures our teams stay connected to the community. Last year alone, through our Park, Walk and Talk program, we participated in more than 40,000 neighborhood conversations listening to concerns and building relationships with the people we serve. Our state-of-the-art Research, Development Training Center (R.D.T.C.) is transforming the readiness and performance of our public safety professionals. In just one year, the R.D.T.C. hosted 3,068 individuals for firearms safety and proficiency training; 1,954 students engaged in rigorous shoot house training, sharpening tactical decision-making and critical response skills; 2,320 professionals enhanced their defensive tactics skills building strength, control and resilience under pressure; 8,779 participants completed classroom-based instruction, reflecting on BSO's deep commitment to continuous learning and strategic development.

This message is the start of a series introducing the unified strength of the Broward Sheriff's Office. Excellence is our standard at BSO. In the coming months, you'll learn how every division works together to serve Broward County, keeping the community safe and prepared.

Fervently Trying To Fight Racism & Antisemitism

Robert Wolf M.D., grew up as the only child of Ervin and Judit Wolf. Their stories of their escape from communist Hungary, and his father's tragic history of escaping the Nazis twice but having his own parents deported to Auschwitz, inspired Robert to document his parents' tales and share those stories with Jewish groups and others throughout the United States. In "Not a Real Enemy," Robert shares his family saga-and the forgotten history of the nearly half million Hungarian Jews who were deported and killed during the Holocaust-through an epic and inspiring tale of daring escapes, terrifying oppression, tragedy, and triumph. I am donating 10% of my proceeds to the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum in Washington, DC (USHMM) in honor of my late parents, both Holocaust survivors. They were Holocaust and history educators throughout their lives in the free world.

"ENHANCE YOUR QUALITY OF LIFE"

The Liberal Jewish Temple of Coconut Creek

A Reform Jewish Congregation Welcoming Everyone

Iris Arlan & Lee Temares

“Do not cast us away when we are old; as our strength diminishes, do not abandon us.” From Gates of Repentance.

“Ageism-Discrimination based on age. - Is a real issue in healthcare, and the ER is no exception. Seniors are sometimes perceived as difficult patients because they may have trouble communicating systems, require extra care due to mobility issues, or arrive without clear medical histories. In some cases, ER doctors may assume that certain treatments aren’t “worth it” for older patients, particularly those with multiple chronic conditions. This mindset can lead to seniors receiving less aggressive treatment than younger individuals with the same symptoms. Such subtle age bias can be devastating in emergency situations where every minute counts.” Savingadvice.com Riley Jones

This past summer, my husband was in the hospital and then in rehab for 2 months. I witnessed the above first hand - from doctors not believing what he said and ignoring symptoms, to aides speaking to him like he was 2 years old to social workers ignoring him and telling me I should send him to a nursing home, to PT people “assuming” things which were wrong and making them part of his chart. He would say something and I would have to be there to back him up. I started thinking about what Judaism had to say about our age group.

Jewish writings, including the Torah and later rabbinic literature, offer profound guidance on the subject of old age and the treatment of elders. At the heart of Jewish tradition is a deep respect for older adults, viewing them as repositories of wisdom, experience, and continuity. This reverence is rooted in the Torah, which frequently commands honor and care for the elderly, and is echoed throughout centuries of Jewish thought.

One of the most explicit Torah verses addressing this issue is found in Leviticus 19:32: “You shall rise before the aged and show deference to the old; you shall fear your God: I am the Lord.” This commandment not only instructs the community to honor elders physically—by standing in their presence—but also links such respect to reverence for God, suggesting that caring for the aged is a sacred duty. The Torah’s consistent emphasis on honoring parents (Exodus 20:12, Deuteronomy 5:16) further extends this ethos, as the fifth commandment to “Honor your father and your mother” is interpreted by Jewish tradition as encompassing all elders, not just one’s immediate family.

Rabbinic writings expand upon these Torah principles. The Talmud, for instance, considers the elderly to be especially worthy of respect regardless of their physical or mental state.

Jewish tradition also mandates practical care for the elderly. The Mishnah in Pirkei Avot (Ethics of the Fathers) teaches, “Do not look at the vessel, but at what is in it,” reminding us that the true value of a person lies in their character and experience, often cultivated over many years. Communities are expected to provide for their elders, ensuring their dignity and well-being. In many Jewish communities, elders are consulted on important matters, their stories are treasured, and their presence is seen as a blessing.

In summary, Jewish writings from the Torah through the rabbinic era consistently stress the importance of honoring and caring for elders. Old age is not viewed as a burden but as a stage of life rich with opportunity for respect, learning, and connection. The Jewish view sees each elder as a living link to the past and a source of wisdom for the future, and teaches that how a community treats its elders is a measure of its moral and spiritual health.

The Liberal Jewish Temple meets the 2nd and 4th Friday of each month. Services will be held on November 7th and the 21st at 7:30 p.m. led by Rabbi Paul Offenkrantz at the Centura Parc Clubhouse (Copans to 36th Ave).

We welcome everyone to join us for our spiritually uplifting services, the camaraderie of our Temple Family and partake in our wonderful Oneg Shabbat. For general information about The Liberal Jewish Temple’s Men’s Club, Sisterhood, dues, and activities, please call Iris at 954-532-5268.

book review

By Beatrice Horowitz

Don't Stop the Carnival

Herman Wouk

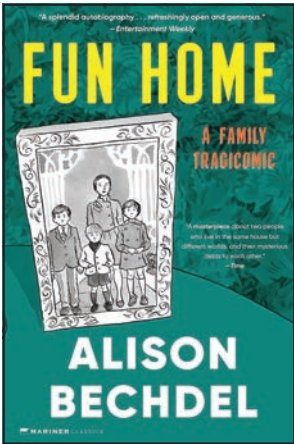

When I asked a friend who had lived in the Virgin Islands for five years what it felt like to be there, she recommended this book.

Norman Paperman is a publicist working in the theatre world of late 1950s Manhattan. He's forty-nine, his only daughter is in college, he's had a heart attack, and he's seduced by the idea of running a resort hotel in the Caribbean. His wife likes the idea. That's enough for him to chuck his career, take off for the island of Amerigo, and buy the Gull Reef Club. Crisis after crisis predictably crashes on his head; the natives are inscrutable and sometimes devious; his wife is delayed in New York long enough for him to fall a bit in love with an ex-pat. Mr. Wouk weaves humor, suspense and slapstick into his story, but also offers commentary on the political and social complexity of one small island. The end feels right. And I was glad to be reminded of one of the authors who introduced me to adult living when I was still a teenager.

Fun Home

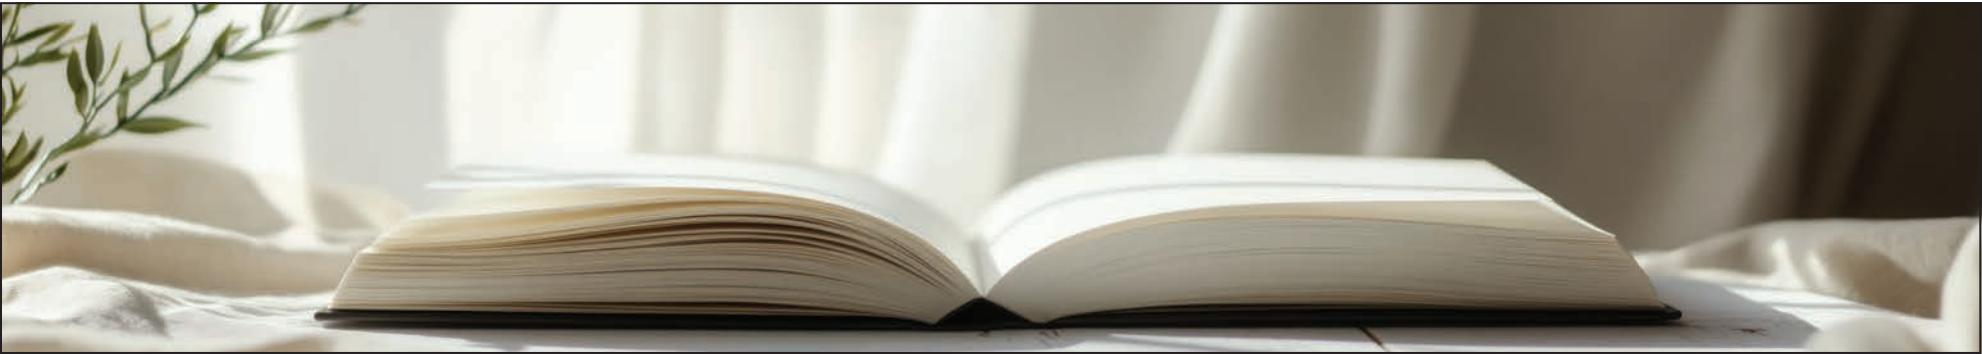

Alison Bechdel

I'm not a fan of graphic books. In fact, I've never finished one. I read this book in three days, telling myself that I was going to go back and study the drawings on a second read. So far, I haven't done that. That's probably my loss, but I find it hard to divide my attention between the written word and pictorial information. The written word of this book is a powerful memoir centered on the author's relationship with her closeted, enigmatic and charismatic father as she came of age and discovered her own lesbian nature. She describes life in a small Pennsylvania town with her parents and two brothers, where one of the family's endeavors was managing the local funeral home. Hence, 'fun home.' The graphics, in their simplicity and directness, create the childish atmosphere of the book and lend it charm.

Okay, I'm going to stop writing and go back and have a closer look. I suspect I'm going to find a lot of innuendo there that I missed the first read through.

What Legal Documents Are Most Important Now?

By Martin Zevin, Attorney

The pandemic changed almost everything. But certain legal documents are more important than ever.

If you need to be hospitalized in Florida, it is imperative that you have a Designation of Health Care Surrogate and Living Will with proper wording so there will be no problems. Do not rely on generic forms obtained online. Florida hospitals are requiring specific HIPAA compliant language not found on generic forms. Your Surrogate will be able to make medical decisions for you if you are unable to communicate. Even if the hospital does not allow any visitors, your Surrogate will be able to talk to the doctors and make decisions on the phone or e-mail. Your Surrogate does not need to be present in the hospital. All your Surrogate needs to do is e-mail or fax a copy of your document to the hospital. If there is no hope to save you, that Surrogate would be authorized to “pull the plug” based on the Living Will.

The Durable Power of Attorney is also important to allow someone to take over your legal and financial affairs. The Florida law changed in 2011. If you have an old Durable Power of Attorney, it should be redone. Again, do not rely on generic forms. Our current Power of Attorney is 26 pages to conform to Florida law.

If you are married, you still need to do a Health Care Surrogate, Living Will and Power of Attorney. You can name your spouse, child or anyone that you trust.

If you should die, your Will or Revocable Living Trust will determine who inherits your assets. The Trust is important to consider if you own your home or other real estate, because it avoids Probate. Probate can tie up your property for many months and prevent your heirs from selling without a Court Order. They would have to continue to pay taxes, maintenance, mortgage, utilities etc. in addition to thousands of dollars in attorney fees and court costs. A Life Estate Deed (Lady Bird) is another option to consider to avoid probate. Your attorney can discuss the different options and the benefits of each one.

I offer free personal or phone consultations to discuss Estate Planning and protecting yourself if you are incapacitated. In these unsettling times, putting your house in order can provide peace of mind. Once you have valid documents, hopefully you won’t need them.

Chess Club

(Still) Plays Every Tuesday Evening

By Hillel Cohen

Welcome back Snowbirds! It’s time to get back into the game.

The club has been meeting regularly throughout the summer and now we are ready to welcome back both new and returning players. The Chess Club meets every Tuesday evening from 6:30 to about 9:30 p.m. in Card Room 1 at the Clubhouse. It’s indoors and air-conditioned, so we meet no matter the weather, unless of course there is a hurricane going on. If you have played at the club before, come back and meet some of the new players. If you haven’t participated before, what are you waiting for? Perhaps you haven’t played since high school and you’re wondering if you remember enough? We hear that a lot, because most of us hadn’t played in years. So, stop wondering and start playing and you’ll be surprised how quickly it will come back. The Wynmoor Chess Club welcomes all players at all levels. And if you play online or against a computer, come and experience the difference of face-to-face play. There are no dues and no fees. Chess sets are provided. Games are casual and relaxed. No one’s keeping score or rankings. The point is to have a pleasant time while exercising our brains.

Glass Kiln Club

By Vicki Mitchell

New members are trained at the beginning of each season by club President Oreet Fagen, and there is much to learn! Selecting your glass, cutting it, grinding it, tacking or fusing it, and selecting your mold to slump it are some of the steps in creating the beautiful works that result from these efforts. Jewelry, bowls, dishes, serving pieces, candle holders, night lights, ocean waves, village scenes and free form sculptures are just some of the creative pieces being produced. We also have the chance to learn new techniques and get new ideas from Oreet at the beginning of each season. The club has monthly breakfast meetings and participates in the Art Walk and upcoming Art Show. Club officers, in addition to President Oreet Fagen, include Vice-president Sharon Schultz, Treasurer Lenny Fagen, and Secretary Judy Platt.

Wynmoor Hadassah

By Judy Goldman

Mark your calendar with this very important date, Wednesday, November 5th. We will be commemorating the attacks on Israel with a lighting ceremony and our guest speaker, Susan Grossman will discuss her new book Emilie, “Leaving The Life I Loved.” Books are available for purchase on Amazon and at our November 5th meeting.

We are always thinking ahead and in advance of our Wednesday, December 3rd Chanukah Party we ask that you please think about adding an unwrapped gift to your shopping list for the children at JAFCO, ages infant to teenagers. Gifts will be collected at the December meeting. We can all put a smile on a child’s face.

We have a new and ongoing initiative! In support of Broward 211, which is a 24-hour helpline that connects residents in Broward County with various community resources, we are collecting clean plastic bags. Yes, that is correct, plastic bags. There are volunteer women who crochet them into sitting pads for the homeless. Bags will be collected at the general meetings.

In support of Wynmoor Hadassah we once again ask for your help! WE NEED YOU! There are many volunteer opportunities to work with our wonderful Wynmoor membership and to support Israel and the Jewish Community. Please consider volunteering your time and supporting the extraordinary work of Hadassah. Meetings are held on the 1st Wednesday of the month at 12:45 p.m., in the West Wing. Bagels, coffee & tea are served. $5 per person at the door.

If you have any questions or ideas please contact Judy Goldman, Wynmoor Chapter President at 954-610-9459 or judyegoldman@gmail.com.

What Is an Accidental Landlord?

An accidental landlord is an individual who unexpectedly becomes a property owner, typically due to significant life changes.

This common situation can arise when homeowners relocate without selling their homes, inherit property, or face difficulties in a challenging housing market. Consider this scenario: What if a homeowner cannot sell their house for the price they want? A well-known real estate principle states, "Homes will sell when priced right." But what if that "right" price falls below the current mortgage balance? Or if the seller faces compelling reasons to reject low offers? In such cases, many homeowners find that renting out their property becomes the most strategic move. By transitioning to a more affordable living situation and leasing their home, they can potentially cover their mortgage and other expenses. This decision effectively turns them into "accidental" or "inadvertent landlords," transforming a difficult situation into a practical and profitable solution.

Current Market Conditions

In the past six months, 70 properties have been available for rent. Among those, 40 are also listed for sale but have chosen to rent instead, reflecting a strategic response to market conditions. Moreover, 23 properties are currently pending condo approval, while 53 properties have successfully secured tenants. This data serves as a testament to the dynamic rental landscape and the significant opportunities homeowners can leverage to maximize their property's value in today's market.
